

News Release from Informed Choice

Bamford joins Financial Planet editorial team

2nd November 2011

Informed Choice managing director Martin Bamford has joined the editorial team of the newly launched Financial Planet website.

Financial Planet (www.financialplanet.org) is the new blogging site created by the Financial Planning Standards Board (FPSB), the global professional standards setting body for financial planning.

As a Certified Financial Planner (CFP) professional, Bamford joins Marlene Shalton and Nick Cann as UK members of the editorial team. In his first blog, Bamford writes about the state of the financial planning profession in the UK.

The site features bloggers from around the world, most practicing Certified Financial Planner professionals and considered experts in their home territories. Martin joins bloggers from Australia, Brazil, India and South Africa.

Notes for editors

For more information and high resolution photos, please visit the media centre on our website at www.icl-ifa.co.uk/resources/media-centre.

For more information about Financial Planet, please contact Ramey Becker, Director of Communications, Financial Planning Standards Board at rbecker@fpsb.org.